What is Getting Real?

Everyone has a story. Good, bad, ugly – our own story – we made it up. As a child we began it – the painful things we experienced we put away and ‘forgot’. All the painful things that happened afterward we hid in the same place. We don’t want to go to this place anymore and we do everything to not notice that it is still there (work too much, addictions, relationships, TV). This place is our own dark alley. We all have one.

This workshop is about the dark alley – this place you don’t want to visit and have worked hard your entire life to avoid. If someone pushes your buttons you come close to this alley. In your life this has happened many times in many ways and many places – with all sorts of people. In all these events, you and your resistance were the only common denominators.

In this workshop you are invited to take this resistance as a starting point to experience your dark alley. This time you will not be alone. Every given moment you decide to stay or leave. If you stay one second more than you usually do you will learn more about your self than you can imagine. Behind these shadows, the love, peace, joy and experience of freedom you’ve always longed for, waits patiently for your return. Is it time?

This workshop is a loving, healing, and above all respectful. You will practice methods of forgiveness that you can use in every aspect of your life and all your relationships. This workshop is a practical application of the principles of A Course in Miracles.
